Downs project meeting draws large crowd

More than 300 individuals attended the public hearing regarding the planned development at the 48-acre Northville Downs site.

The March 15 public hearing, scheduled by members of the Northville Planning Commission, took place at the Northville Community Center and was available online using Zoom. The developer, Hunter Pasteur, plans mixed use development of single and multi-family housing, commercial property including town homes and condominiums, along with public parks and green space at the site.

Meeting chairman Donna Tinberg explained that the hearing was an effort to determine the viability of the plans submitted to the commission and compliance with the zoning ordinance and the 2018 master plan. When, and if, commissioners determine the acceptability of the site plan and planned urban development, the project plans must undergo a final site plan review. Tinberg noted that there will be negotiations between commissioners and the developer during the ongoing review process.

Tinberg noted the commissioners will begin reviewing the site plan in greater detail at upcoming meetings beginning April 5 and the public will be invited to comment after each topic area is covered, which at times may take more than one meeting.

She said the public benefits offered by the developer include the daylighting the river and turning it into a 9-acre public park along River Street, creating a 1.09 acre central park on Cady Street and several pocket parks; potentially offering a new site for the farmers' market; contributing toward the cost of preserving an historic log cabin (either on site or at a new location); and developing a gateway to the city from Seven Mile and S. Center. In addition, Seth Herkowitz, of Hunter Pasteur, said there would be increased tax revenue for the city, the Downtown Development Authority and the Northville Public Schools.

Developer Hunter Pasteur presented architectural and landscape designs of the proposed 48- acre Northville Downs development.

Plans currently include 474 housing units with a mix of townhomes, single-family homes, condos, high-end apartments, row houses and carriage homes. In addition, more than 16,000 square feet of commercial space is proposed along Cady. Herkowitz noted that many of the housing units either have first-floor master bedrooms or elevators for greater accessibility for the growing numbers of seniors in Northville.

The developer indicated that changes to the site plan, including replacing 50 townhomes with 40 row houses along South Center, and reducing the building height of some townhomes from three stories to 2.5 stories on one section of the street are being negotiated. These changes are being considered in response to public concern about having a "canyon effect" due to townhomes on both sides of South Center.

"Constructive community input has profoundly influenced our plan and we are appreciative. I know we look forward to synthesizing community and commission feedback as we continue to refine our site plan during the PUD process," said Herkowitz.

To address concerns about density, Herkowitz showed a chart that had the Downs density at 9.85 dwelling units per acre. In comparison, he noted the new Foundry Flask project has a 16.77 dwelling units per acre. The ordinance requires at least 15 dwelling units per acre for property fronting on Cady Street. In addressing traffic concerns, he advised the public to

Lesson in dedication

Missing photo of Sept. 11 victim is located by councilwoman

That image of freshman Albert Ogletree is now installed on the National Sept. 11 Memorial and Museum in New York, thanks to the dedicated efforts of retired educator and current Romulus City Councilwoman Kathy Abdo.

Mr. Ogletree was among the nearly 3,000 people who perished in the Sept. 11 terrorist attack on the World Trade Center in 2001.

Councilwoman Kathy Abdo

His was one of only two photos of victims not installed on the wall, instead marked with an oak leaf. This week, Mr. Ogletree's image was placed alongside the other victims, giving faces to those who lost their lives in the terrorist attack.

Finding those missing photos became a goal of museum staff member Grant Llera, who spent weeks searching for any trace of a family member who might have a photo of Mr. Ogletree.

An obituary for Mr. Ogletree's widow who died in 2004 led to his stepdaughter, Justine Jones, who led researchers to Romulus.

A museum staff member placed a call to the Romulus High School hoping to find a yearbook photo. While the high school didn't have yearbooks that far back, they knew just who to call who would know where to find one.

"The school called me and said - you know, we got this request and we don't have any photos," recalled Abdo who retired after 40 years of teaching in the Romulus school district. While she made no promises, Abdo said, she told them that she would look into it. "The fact that a Romulus student died in 9/11 made me feel an obligation to find his picture."

She had only his name and a possible decade of Mr. Ogletree's attendance in Romulus schools, but for a veteran educator who remembers nearly all her students, that

School traffic prompts increased police patrol

In response to numerous complaints about heavy traffic, Canton police are increasing enforcement around several school building areas.

According to a prepared statement from Deputy Chief of Police Craig Wilsher, complaints have been received regarding heavy traffic at various schools, specifically motorists disregarding traffic controls in the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park area near Canton, Plymouth and Salem high schools. Complaints have increased during the past week, according to Wilsher.

"For various reasons, there are many more students driving or being dropped off at the high schools, causing traffic jams on Beck, Gyde, Joy and Canton Center roads," said Wilsher. "These backups are prompting vehicles to disregard traffic control devices and use the left turn lane as a through lane," he added.

> These backups are prompting vehicles to disregard traffic control devices and use the left turn lane as a through lane.

Wilsher said, the department has assigned additional patrol units to select school areas during peak problem hours including morning arrival and afternoon dismissal. In addition to this increased traffic enforcement, he said police are encouraging drivers to take advantage of other methods such as carpooling or using alternate routes to help alleviate the long lines of traffic.

"Drivers who pass by schools on their routes going elsewhere are encouraged to use alternate roads to avoid being caught up in the congestion," Wilsher said. "Motorists who are trying to get to the schools should follow all traffic controls and remain patient while waiting to enter the school property," he added.

The Canton Police Department will continue to assist with the traffic issues as Plymouth-Canton Community Schools works to resolve the issues," Wilsher concluded.

Road Rally to benefit Canton foundation

Who knows what participants may be asked to find or where they will have to go during the special Road Rally Scavenger Hunt set for Saturday, April 23, in Canton Township.

The event is being hosted by the Canton Community Foundation of the Local Community Alliance and will benefit the Canton Cares Fund, organizers said.

> All proceeds from the event will benefit the Canton Cares Fund.

Area residents are encouraged to assemble a team and join the fun from 4:30-7:30 p.m. for a special afternoon of solving puzzles and navigating throughout the local area which will start and end at the Summit on the Park, located at 46000 Summit Parkway in Canton.

"We're hoping individuals will grab their family, friends, and neighbors and load up their cars to make a team for this fun special event," said Laura Mortier, recreation supervisor. "During this event teams will solve puzzles, riddles, and clues in an effort to earn the most points, all for a good cause to benefit the Canton Cares Fund."

The cost to participate is $40 per car, and registration is currently under way at www.localimpactalliance.org/events.

All proceeds from the event will benefit the Canton Cares Fund, which supports the Canton community by providing financial assistance to disaster relief, therapeutic recreation (special needs), youth and senior programs, employee recognition, and scholarships. The Canton Cares Fund, part of the Canton Community Foundation since 2018, has distributed more than $30,000 to those in need.

Winning ways

Three East Middle School students short-handedly won the State of Michigan Chess Championship last week. The Michigan School State Chess Championship Tournament involves teams of four students from middle schools across the state. On the night before the competition, one of the team members from East Middle School was unexpectedly forced to withdraw from the tournament. The remaining competitors, Dron Das (grade 8) Anthony Chen (grade 8) and Druheen Das (grade 6), went on to post an undefeated 4.5 score in five games. This made up for the zero score the team received on the fourth board in each round for the missing player. Despite the enormous disadvantage, the students swept the remaining matches to take the championship and bring the huge trophy back to Canton.

SUMPTER - WAYNE

Trustees reject all bids, re-offer 3 township sites

Members of the Sumpter Township Board of Trustees rejected the original bids on three properties owned by the township following professional appraisals of the sites.

Trustees approved a seven-day deadline from the March 8 meeting for bidders on the sites on Arkona Road and Martinsville Road to submit revised bids on the properties.

Township Trustee Matt Oddy, a member of the Bid Committee, explained that while 10 bids were received for the land on Arkona Road and five bids were submitted for the property on Martinsville Road, recently received appraisals of the sites were considerably higher than the bids received. Bidders offered $86,000 while the appraisals valued the land at $140,000 and $160,000.

A lone, $42,000 bid was received for the property on Sumpter Road while the appraisal of that site valued it at $80,000. Board members will allow open bidding on that site and not limit it to those who bid previously.

Oddy said that the properties have been a liability for the township for years. He explained that the appraisals of the sites came late, after the bids had been received.

Township Supervisor Tim Bowman said the township should auction the properties with a minimum bid of $80,000. "How much to we want to get these properties off our books? We can hire a company and they do the advertising. They bring people and they get the word out. We are spending too much time and money. We bought signs we advertised," he said. Bowman was critical, too of the process. "We should have had appraisals before we bid. This was backwards."

> We should have had appraisals before we bid. This was backwards.

Trustee Peggy Morgan suggested during the discussion of the re-bidding that the process for all the properties be open to the public, not limited to seven days for just those who bid previously. "Let's be fair to everybody," she said.

The sale of the Sumpter Road property remains unpopular with neighbors in the area, including Trustee Don LaPorte, who lives close to the site. During the public comment portion of the meeting, resident Cory Blue told the board members that he and six of his neighbors do not want a commercial development on the site. The Sumpter Road property is behind a former medical clinic and is in a commercially zoned area.

"Country Living at it's Finest. That's your motto. That's why I moved here. We should keep it that way," Blue said. He said the property is landlocked and in his neighbors' backyards. "This is not right. Several families will be affected. It makes no sense to make it commercial," he said. He added that when neighbors attempted to split the property to buy the site, they were refused and told they needed a plan to begin commercial building on the property. He said as an engineer, he could have prepared a plan, and that lone bidder stipulated that construction would not begin for years.

"It's just all about the money," Blue said and left the meeting.

LaPorte cast the lone no vote on re-bidding the Sumpter Township site with an $80,000 minimum while he and Morgan each voted no on the seven-day re-bid deadline for the Arkona and Martinsville sites.

Township attorney Rob Young reminded the board members that they have the right to reject any and all bids submitted.

Hiring committee expected to recommend new administrator

Members of the Sumpter Township Hiring Committee are expected to recommend Darwin McClary for the open township administrator position.

McClary, who claims more than 30 years of experience as a city and village manager, holds a master's degree in public administration. He is currently the president and chief executive officer of MuniciPRO LLC, an independent consulting firm working with municipal clients. He founded the firm in 2018, according to the business website.

The other two candidates interviewed for the position were former long-time Deputy Township Supervisor Karen Armatis and Ken D. Marten, currently Bingham Farms village administrator. Members of the hiring committee eliminated Marten during an earlier meeting March 7 based on his salary requirements.

McClary, who has acted as short-term interim manager at multiple communities throughout the area, said he would expect a fair salary for the job commensurate with the population of the township and that the amount was negotiable. He also told the committee members that he would not require health insurance.

Armatis, who worked for the township for 30 years in various capacities including as deputy supervisor, said she would expect to be paid $72,500 and be returned into the township retirement account. She, too, said that she would not need township-funded health care insurance.

Members of the committee include Township Supervisor Tim Bowman, Public Safety Director Eric Luke, Finance Director Scott Holtz, Treasurer Vincent Warren and Clerk Esther Hurst. Hurst was absent from the March 7 meeting and Interim Deputy Supervisor/Trustee Tim Rush attended those interviews in her place. At the end of that meeting, the committee awarded 234 points to McClary and Armatis received 208 points.

Rush told the committee members during the March 14 meeting that he had contacted references for both candidates and found nothing negative about either of the prospective administrators.

Hurst, however, said that she had concerns regarding the brief tenure of McClary at the various positions listed on his resume.

"He doesn't stay long at one place," she said. "I want somebody who is going to stay with us."

Hurst expressed her concern regarding some newspaper articles about McClary's various municipal employments.

Rush explained that he had "checked everything in the articles" and said that "His firings were all politics based." Rush said that after elections, newly-elected officials chose their own support staff. He said that most of McClary's terminations were by mutual consent and that the shortest stay on his resume was a year and a half.

Following more discussion, committee members voted on their choice for the administrator position, currently budgeted at $90,000. Three of the members, Holtz, Warren and Bowman, favored McCLary while Luke and Hurst voted for Armatis.

The issue is expected to be on the next township board of trustees regular agenda.

Happy birthday, Dr. Seuss

March has been dedicated as National Reading Month and members of the Wayne Police Department have been visiting local elementary schools to encourage students of all ages to read and enjoy books. Reading month was originally dedicated to celebrate the birthday of Dr. Seuss, the author of multiple children's classics and winner of the 1984 Pulitzer Prize for his contribution to the education of America's children and parents. Early this month, Wayne Ofc. Matthew Whalen and Ofc. James Serma visited students at Roosevelt-McGrath Elementary and each read to them from a classic tale. Wayne officers, and Chief Ryan Strong, will be visiting schools and reading to students all month to help encourage reading.

Westland

Mayor welcomes new businesses to community

Recently, Westland Mayor William R. Wild commented on the number of new businesses opening in the city.

"Despite the challenges caused by the pandemic, the City of Westland continues to attract a number of unique dining and entertainment businesses representing new commercial investment, not only in Westland's Shop and Dine District, but across the city. Throughout the first quarter of 2022 a number of new establishments and have opened their doors and many more are slated to open in March," Wild said.

Among those new to the city are Egyptian Kitchen, located at 2717 S. Wayne Road which officially hosted a "soft opening" earlier this year. Egyptian Kitchen serves distinctive authentic Egyptian and Mediterranean dishes. They are currently offering a limited menu with a full menu expected to launch later this month, Wild said.

Also recently opened are Glass House Hookah Lounge and Glass House Kitchen, both located at 7900 Middlebelt Road. Both celebrated a grand opening on March 9. These new businesses are a reuse of a formerly vacant 4,678 square foot Burger King site and represent the first phase of a complete redevelopment of the vacant storefronts at Ann Arbor Road and Middlebelt. On the hooka side, they feature more than 100 different hookas and various flavors while the neighboring restaurant offers an extensive menu available for takeout. This redevelopment alone represents an $800,000 investment and will employ 10 people, Wild said.

Aroma Creperie and Café, located at 6629 N. Wayne Road is also open for business. Rajaa Aljburi is a Westland resident and first-time business owner who is realizing her family's long-time dream of a family-owned business. This new location boasts an impressive array of sweet and savory crepe options as well as additional entrée and beverage features, the mayor said.

> It's incredible to see so many local entrepreneurs investing in their passions and our community,

Just up the road, 2Booli 2Go has opened inside of the formerly vacant 2,354 square foot Mexican restaurant, located at 6308 N. Wayne Road. Owned by the Ansara family, this restaurant offers a number of "build-your-own" Mediterranean dishes, for a quick lunch or convenient dinner.

This location is the second of this concept in Michigan, with its sister location having success in Farmington Hills, Wild added.

For people seeking entertainment and a unique experience, try The Legendary Axe. Located at 37550 Cherry Hill inside of Hush Haunted Attraction, The Legendary Axe is a full-service bar and restaurant which features Metro-Detroit's largest and most elaborate axe throwing facility. Westland entrepreneur Cody Baily put extensive effort into creating an immersive experience, similar to that of Hush. The Legendary Axe celebrated a grand opening March 12 and 13.

For those looking to capture memories, The Selfie Studio opened yesterday. Located at 34524 Warren Road, The Selfie Studio allows guests to enjoy 20 well-designed photo sets, providing the perfect place to spend time with family and friends. This concept is the first of this kind in the city and provides an innovative experience for those who are fans of the digital age. They also feature a 360-degree camera for artistically creative videos. "It's incredible to see so many local entrepreneurs investing in their passions and our community," commented Wild. "These unique concepts are providing our residents and visitors of Westland with so many great options for dining and entertainment and they ultimately help shape the identify of our community."

Council approves appointments to city appeals boards

Four volunteer appointments and reappointments to city boards were recently confirmed by members of the Westland City Council.

Former Westland City Clerk Eileen DeHart-Schoof has been reappointed to the city Zoning Board of Appeals for a three-year term to expire in May of 2025. DeHart-Schoof also previously served on the Westland City Council and served as a State Representative. She was nominated for reappointment by the members of the city council.

John Sullivan Esq. was appointed by Mayor William R. Wild to the Westland Board of Review as an alternate to complete an unexpired term. His appointment was made immediately effective and will expire in September of 2023. Sullivan is a local attorney as served as a Wayne County Commissioner from 1999 until 2007. He has also served on the Youth Assistance Advisory Board since March of 2021 and the Local Development Finance authority since April of 2021.

Mel Tockstein and Michael Koelzer have each been reappointed to the Westland Building Board of Appeals, each serving a three-year term to expire in March of 2025. Tockstein has been a longtime resident of Westland and has served on the Commission on Aging in the city since 2005 and the Board of Review since 2010. Koelzer is an instructor at the William D. Ford Career Technical Center teaching construction technology.

"Westland City Council is pleased to nominate and approve the reappointment of Eileen DeHart-Schoof to the Zoning Board of Appeals and have her continue serving the community as she has for many ears.

> I am pleased to have these individuals continue to serve the City of Westland in their positions and look forward to the great work they will do...

"We are equally as pleased to confirm the appointment of John Sullivan from Mayor William Wild to his position on the Board of Review," said Council President James Hart.

"I am pleased to have these individuals continue to serve the City of Westland in their positions and look forward to the great work they will do in the All-American City," commented Wild.

Anyone interested in serving on a Westland board or commission can find a complete list of vacancies, information, requirement and explanations at www.cityofwestland.com.

Request for ride in police car ends with felony arrest

One Westland resident got a bit more than he planned when he flagged down a police car seeking a ride home.

According to police reports, Derrick Horne, 39, was walking though the Norwayne district March 11 when he waved down Ofc. Reed Zielinski and asked for a ride. The officer, mindful of both the Compassionate City and Protect and Serve mandates in the city, explained that while he would be glad to help a resident in need, police procedures required that he search Horne for weapons before allowing him to ride in the patrol car.

According to Zielinski's report of the incident, the interaction led to the discovery of Horne's criminal record as a convicted felon and a concealed firearm in his possession.

Police officials detailed the encounter on social media, explaining, "We do not know what Horne's intentions were when asking Officer Zielinski for a ride, but this goes to show how there is nothing routine about police work. We are proud of Officer Zielinski in his efforts to assist members of the community while at the same time assuring that he makes it home safely."

Horne was video arraigned by the 36th District Court on six felony counts including felon in possession of a weapon, felon in possession of ammunition, carrying a concealed weapon, two counts of felony firearm, and habitual offender-fourth offense. Magistrate Laura Echartea issued Horne a personal bond during a court appearance March 13.

Derrick Horne

Horne is scheduled to appear at the 18th District Court for a probable cause conference today.

INKSTER - ROMULUS

Legislator sentenced to probation, community service

> Unless he has a significant revelation, I do not believe he will be successful on HYTA (Holmes Youthful Training Act) probation.

State Representative Jewell Jones, D-Inkster, was sentenced to two-years of probation for the misdemeanor and felony charges incurred during a drunk-driving arrest last April.

Livingston County Circuit Court Judge Michael Hatty sentenced Jones to the probation period with 61 days of time served and 100 hours of community service as part of a plea agreement. The judge said the sentence would allow Jones time to "grow up and move past the incident."

Prosecutors in the case had continued to lobby for more jail time for the 26-year-old state legislator whose blood alcohol level at the time of his arrest was 0.19, more than three times that allowed under Michigan State Law. Jones had also become belligerent and combative with officers at the scene when he and a female companion were found outside his black Chevy Tahoe in a ditch. Officers were called to the scene after multiple motorists called 911 to report an erratic driver along Interstate 96, according to prosecutors.

According to police reports, Jones refused to provide any identification and was abusive and uncooperative, telling officers he was "going to call Gretchen." As he became more erratic and combative, he was pepper sprayed and tasered in attempts to subdue and arrest him. His companion was reported as "unresponsive" by EMTs and transported from the scene to a nearby hospital. Officers also observed a loaded handgun in plain sight on the console of the vehicle, according to police reports.

Assistant Livingston County Prosecutor Christina Richards and one of the Michigan State troopers with whom Jones became physically abusive urged more jail time for Jones, noting his three previous violations of bail conditions, his multiple attempts to tamper with the court-ordered ankle monitor and the discovery of a handcuff key taped to the bottom of his foot during jail intake procedures.

Richards also cited Jones continued social media posts mocking the court procedures, his tardiness to court hearings and his marketing of t-shirts quoting comments he made regarding Gov. Gretchen Whitmer during his arrest.

"Unless he has a significant revelation, I do not believe he will be successful on HYTA (Holmes Youthful Training Act) probation," Richards told the court.

As part of the plea deal, Jones entered guilty pleas to four misdemeanors and two felonies including two counts of resisting and obstructing, operating while intoxicated, possession of a firearm while under the influence of alcohol, reckless driving and escape of lawful custody.

The resisting and obstructing and weapons convictions are eligible for eventual dismissal under the HYTA, which allows individuals up to the age of 25 to keep convictions private upon successful completion of sentencing and parole.

As part of his plea agreement, additional charges against Jones were dismissed, including other resisting and obstructing counts, operating a motor vehicle with a high blood alcohol content, bringing a weapon into a county jail and an escape attempt.

Rep. Jewell Jones

Jones was stripped of all state house committee assignments and suspended from the Inkster Auxiliary Police Force while charges were pending.

Abdo went to the Romulus Historical Society where, she said, "Pearl (Varner) has every yearbook since 1940 on." The two spent a Sunday afternoon and eventually located Mr. Ogletree.

"I went through every yearbook I could. It just seemed the right thing to do," Abdo said. "We were pretty excited when we found him."

Abdo said the connection between teacher and student made her want to find out more about Mr. Ogletree. He was born on Christmas Day in 1951 and grew up in Romulus with his parents and a sister, Elizabeth. He moved to New York City, married and was working in the North Tower in Food Services at the time of his death at the age of 49. His stepdaughter confirmed his identity and said that he still resembled the high school photo.

She recalled Mr. Ogletree as a "a loving man who played an important role" in her life, and a "skillful electronics repairman."

Abdo said she attempted to find any other family members or friends in the area, who remembered Mr. Ogletree, but was unsuccessful.

"It was the right thing to do and I was honored to do it," said Abdo who added that visiting the memorial is on her "to-do list."

The museum - which is beneath the Memorial Plaza and opened in 2014 - is still asking anyone with information about Mr. Ogletree to contact staff members there.

Mr. Ogletree's name also is etched into the memorial panel N-24.

Helping hand

A spring approaches, many area residents are looking to clean out their closets of gently-worn garments or refresh their wardrobes to welcome warmer weather. Donations are now being accepted at Helping Hands at 37501 West Huron Dr. in Romulus while shoppers are welcome to take advantage of the recently received items throughout the shop. The facility is open from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday.

Police department seeking state accreditation

A team of assessors from the Michigan Law Enforcement Accreditation Commission (MLEAC) will arrive at the City of Northville Police Department on April 7 to examine all aspects of the department's policies and procedures, management, operations, and support services. It's all part of the department's voluntary process to achieve accreditation - a highly prized recognition of law enforcement professional excellence.

The team will verify that the Northville police department meets MLEAC best practice standards by complying with 105 standards, a goal set by Police Chief Alan Maciag.

"Accreditation results in greater accountability within the agency, reduced risk and liability exposure, stronger defense against civil lawsuits, increased community advocacy, and greater confidence in the agency's ability to operate efficiently and respond to community needs," said Maciag.

A copy of the standards is available for review at the City of Northville Police Department, 215 W. Main St. Northville.

Anyone wishing to offer written comments about the ability of the police department to comply with the standards for accreditation should email the accreditation program manager at nrossow@michiganpolicechiefs.org or write the Michigan Law Enforcement Accreditation Commission at 3474 Alaiedon Pkwy., Suite 600, Okemos, MI 48864.

Members of the general public can provide comments to the assessment team by phone or email from 9 until 11 a.m. Friday, April 8. On that date, call (248) 449-9910 or email comments to amaciag@ci.northville.mi.us. Phone comments are limited to five minutes and must address the ability of the agency to comply with the commission standards.

Accreditation is valid for a three-year period during which time the agency must submit annual reports attesting to their continued compliance with the initial accreditation standards.

The MACP, through the Michigan Law Enforcement Accreditation Commission, is the legitimate authority and accreditation agency in the state of Michigan.

Funding for Community Center upgrades is OK'd

The Plymouth Cultural Center is a step closer to more than $400,000 in renovations and improvements as part of a federal funding program.

The Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) Compliance Project at the Plymouth Cultural Center will include updating of the four main public restrooms at the city facility to ensure full ADA compliance, according to a statement from State Rep. Haley Stevens who secured nearly $18 million for projects in the 11th District.

According to the grant documents, The Plymouth Cultural Center is the only voting location in the city and accommodates all four precincts. In addition, the building hosts multiple senior citizen classes, events and health clinics.

"Increasingly, City of Plymouth boards and commissions and local civic organizations use the building's large room for their meetings to accommodate socially distant participants. In addition, the Plymouth Cultural Center (PCC) , is home to an ice arena, hosts hundreds of athletic events every year with thousands of players and spectators," according to the grant documents. "Bringing the PCC restrooms up to full ADA compliance will require structural changes to the building and major plumbing work, since the current system is encased in a concrete slab. Interior walls, ceilings, fixtures, partitions and tile will need to be replaced as well.

"Bringing the restrooms to ADA compliance will allow our elderly visitors and persons with disabilities to use the facility without hindrance," the grant documents states.

"I am thrilled to announce that so many community projects ranging from infrastructure, to funding for police departments to the construction of new public spaces for seniors and families to use in Michigan's 11th District will now be fully funded," Stevens said.

"My staff and I have been working for months with mayors, township supervisors, local and statewide elected officials from both parties to determine the greatest needs in our communities. Every community project that was identified and submitted to the House Appropriations Committee was funded. When we invest in our communities, they thrive, and this funding will impact countless lives throughout our District."

Stevens submitted several Community Project Funding requests to the Appropriations Committee, and every request that the Congresswoman submitted was accepted by the Appropriations Committee.

The inclusion of this funding in the Appropriations Committee draft bill is the first step in the funding process. The bill now moves to the full Appropriations Committee, consideration on the House Floor, and negotiations with the Senate.

read the traffic report audited by OHM Advisors and also recommended that a technical working group be set up..

In response to concerns about the new housing units having an adverse impact on Northville Public Schools, Herkowitz used school and census data to show school enrollment would be down by 200 students if no new housing units are built.

Tinberg commented, "A school district presentation during the 2021 Master Plan update process indicated that there is room for increased enrollment from this development within the existing school buildings."

During the public comments, 53 people voiced opinions and/or statements about how the project either meets or fails to meet requirements of the zoning ordinance. In addition, 69 letters or emails were received on the topic. Top concerns included density and the impact on traffic. Those who support the project are eager to move ahead, citing specific benefits it will bring to the city. Comments will be in the planning commission minutes posted on the city website and the public hearing can be viewed on the city Vimeo link.

Herkowitz said Hunter Pasteur now has a website devoted to the project at: www.northvilledowns.info.
